

How Are You Inspired by America?

“True patriotism springs from a belief in the dignity of the individual, freedom and equality not only for Americans but for all people on earth” Eleanor Roosevelt.

The United States of America is widely known for its independence and freedom. That may be what you see on the outside, but in reality there's various reasons why America is beautiful and inspiring in its own way.

America is inspiring to me because it's one of few countries that has the availability of this much freedom. Our country is one of the most diverse in the world. We as Americans have been fighting for our independence for years and years, and we finally got it on July 4th of 1776. The USA is one of the only places where you can freely choose your religion, declare your independence and live in your own unique way.

I also thank the veterans who served in wars to help represent our country and our freedom. Veterans are dedicated to serving our country and help make the country the best it can be. Soldiers in the military take a huge role in the United States, and partake in several battles that could be life-changing or taking. Soldiers risk their lives on the battlefield all for the country and their intense dedication. It's inspiring knowing how many people enlist in the military each year willing to make a huge sacrifice for us!

Another way the United States inspires me is because it also offers a wide variety of landscapes and beauty for visitors and anybody worldwide to enjoy. This varies from forests, wetlands, plains, to even beautiful mountains! The man-made features of America are also beautifully and amazingly built. The architecture of various buildings in the US is astonishing; some examples consist of popular tourist attractions such as the Statue of Liberty. The Statue of Liberty is a part of a celebration for the emancipation of enslaved people in the US. This statue widely represents the advancement of freedom in America.

Underneath our gifted freedom, the United States is a wonderful country to make our dreams a reality and have a wide variety of opportunities we wouldn't have elsewhere. I am widely inspired by being able to grow up in a country where I'm gifted with free will. There's no place quite like America, the land of the free, the home of the brave, gifted with liberty and justice for all.
